

Africa's Special Economic Zones: Engines for Industrialisation, Urban Development, and Economic Diversification

As Africa positions itself as a global economic powerhouse, special economic zones (SEZs) are emerging as key drivers of industrialisation, urban development, and economic diversification. SEZs are designated geographical areas within a country where businesses and investors can operate with different, often more favourable economic policies and regulations than the rest of the country.