

Generations of Growth: Family Businesses as Catalysts of Economic Transformation

Family businesses are among the oldest forms of enterprise. Today, they are among the most impactful drivers of global economic transformation. Despite receiving less media attention than public multinationals, family-owned firms generate more than 70 percent of global GDP and account for approximately 60 percent of all jobs worldwide, according to EY and the Family Firm Institute.