

Sovereign Wealth Funds in Africa: Unlocking State Capital for Growth

Sovereign Wealth Funds (SWFs) are government-owned investment vehicles that manage and grow a country's wealth, often using surplus revenues from commodities, fiscal surpluses, or foreign exchange reserves. Besides stabilising economies, SWFs have become vital tools for funding development, diversifying economies, and investing for future generations.