

The Rise of Africa's Sports Economy: Beyond the Game

Africa has long been recognised as a powerhouse of sporting talent. Today, however, the opportunity extends far beyond the field of play. As investment accelerates across infrastructure, media, technology, tourism and major sporting events, sport is emerging as a strategic economic sector capable of attracting capital, creating jobs, strengthening regional integration and driving sustainable economic growth.