Top Matters

- Acting for a client in connection with an action seeking among other things, a declaration that the client has a beneficial and legal share of properties acquired jointly by the client and the defendant during their unmarried union, including obtaining an interim ruling from the Court which recognised the client's interest in the property pending the substantive hearing of the matter. This matter is of particular interest as currently issues relating to property settlement between couples are only recognised under the Marriage Act and Matrimonial Causes Act which are only applicable to married couples. This case will set precedence on how far the courts are willing to recognise the rights of parties of an unmarried union in relation to property acquired jointly.

- Acting for Metchem Resources in connection with an order for the removal of the defendant as director of the client for breaching his fiduciary duties which have now been codified under the Companies Act 2017, including successfully obtaining a judgment in favour of the clients, whereby the court ordered the removal of the defendant as a director.
- Acting for a client in connection with a capital raise on the London Stock Exchange, including undertaking a due diligence exercise on the company's portfolio companies in Zambia.
